Feeling Is Strong.

So strong is the feeling in the local Central Labor Union that Charles T. The other delegates going to the convention from Washington are John H. Brinkman, of the Carriage and Wagon Workers' International Unio; James O'Connell, president of the Macinilists' International Association: Secretary Frank Morrison, of the A. F. of L.; D. F. Manning, of the Retail Clerks' Union; James F. McHugh, of the Stone-cutters' International Union; George Foster, of the Plate Printers' International Union; George Foster, of the Plate Printers' International Union; John Weber, of the Bakers and Confectioners' International, and George Huddleston, of the State Sacher Mine and Sache White, for the Mineola Tribe, received the council. Although the increase in membership was not as large as was hoped the tribe was able to show a sound financial condition after a rather taxing season, because of sick-little mining towns. Sam's "cyclone" voice has died away to a faint whisper, and he is nursing a heavy cold, which he contracted in two open-air meetings in the western part of the State Saturday a week ago.

President Feeney, who was lined up with the opposition forces, also came in town, smiling and happy, and will be council all talked briefly. The next visit of inspection will be made Thurs-day to Loren Teibe.

Hermione Lodge, No. 12, Knights of Pythias, in session in its castle hall, at Odd Fellows Hall, Georgetown on Wednesday evening extended a cordial welcome to Grand Chancellor Claude H. Woodward and his associate Grand Lodge officers, on the occasion of the annual visitation to that lodge. There was a large attendance, and much interest and enthusiasm were displayed. The reports on the affairs of the lodge showed Hermione Lodge to be in an excellent condition, after an existence of over forty years. The remarks of the grand chancellor and the other than the condition and the other than the condition of Labor, will have strong opposition for re-election at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, will have strong opposition for re-election at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, will have strong opposition for re-election at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, will have strong opposition for re-election at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, will have strong opposition for re-election at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, will be opposed in the election. No names of likely candidates for his place have been heard in Washington, but there are healthy rumors of a formidable opposition to him. Resolutions condemning Mr. reeney's stand were introduced at last week's session, and after a lively scrap they were tabled for a week, until President Feeney returned to the city. He arrived soon after the completion of his speaking tour, and it is expected he will be on hand tomorrow night. It is understood from those behind the movement against Feeney that the resolutions will be lengthy and elaborate, and they will receive a lot of support. Indications are, however, that if they are passed at all, it will only be after a hard fight.

Many of the members are of the Feeney's stand were introduced at last ing, a committee of seven was appointed to devise means whereby the necessary amount could be raised, and to report back to the several representatives on the 14th instant. The large attendance was very gratifying to the board of directors, and showed that the several lodges are anxious and willing to do whatever they can to help the hall association in *this matter.

In fact, President Gompers has always in the past, so far as is known, voted. With two or three exceptions the entire local labor movement is behind to the local organizations. It is pointed out by the opponents of this move that through his stand in the campaign Mr. Feeney ought to be extremely useful in the advancement of labor measures before a Republican Congress, and that he will be able to do more than a man without a question.

FAIR PLAY.

The children were not allowed in the kitchen, but nobody had ever forbidden them sniffing outside the door to catch the delicious odors which could be obtained by a close application of a small nose to a crack.

"Why, Ethel," said the mother, who discovered them in the entry just outside the kitchen door one Saturday morning, "why are you twitching Tommy and slapping him?"

"Cause now he isn't playing fair, mother," said Ethel, "He's had five smells and I've only had four, and it's my turn."

"I am too, playing fair," "Nope. Whenever I git downhearted to a bill for some she thinks otherwise. I tried it this morning-presented a bill for some sago. Here was the irrefutable logic:
